Seaplanes landing in Canberra

Hi, As one of many users of lake burley griffin do not think seaplanes landing and taking off on the lake is a wise and safe idea, there are so many citizens who engage in activities on the lake and river , swimming , sailing, , windsurfing, paddle boarding, almost all these activities are man or wind powdered, introducing petrol engine aircraft which will be noisy and add pollution to the lake it's users and surrounds is not in keeping with the current and future times for the lake and the population who enjoy amenity to it , even if it is just to be sitting walking etc around the lake, I have nothing against flying but must add that this proposal has only merit for a select few at the determent for many Canberrans and others, why is this being considered at all when the Canberra International Airport in its master plan states that it will have capacity to have aircraft light, domestic, international, freight,etc taking off and landing every two minutes 24 hours a day?
