I think this is a terrible idea.

- Recreation on the lake will be negatively impacted. I want to be able to take my kayak out without worrying about being hit by a plane. I want to take my kayak out without being disturbed by the noise of a plane
- Recreation around the lake will be disturbed. I like being able to walk around the lake and experience the peace and quiet there is, especially around West Basin. Adding in a plane will disturb this.
- Putting in a service like this will only benefit a few, but will impact many. Who's going to be able to afford the premium to fly from lake to harbour? Only very well-off people who can probably afford the time it takes to travel to the airport.
- It's out of character with the current image of the lake. I like a lake with no motorised vessels. Seaplanes will ruin this.

The benefits to a few will be strongly outweighed by the impacts to many. Keep Canberra clean, quiet, and green. Don't add a seaplane service to the lake.

Kind regards
Andrew
